UNIPRO WELCOMES NEW MEMBER ASHLEY FOODS

ATLANTA – UniPro Foodservice announced the addition of Ashley Foods to the UniPro membership, expanding a cooperative built on collaboration, shared expertise, and mutual growth among independent distributors.

Founded in 1984, Ashley Foods is a family-owned, full-service provisioner specializing in premium meats, cheeses, seafood, charcuterie, and specialty products for restaurants, country clubs, hotels, and other foodservice operators throughout the Delaware Valley. Known for its commitment to quality, freshness, and personalized service, Ashley Foods has grown from a small specialty distributor into a respected regional supplier serving many of the area's premier dining establishments. Today, the company continues to build on the legacy established by founder Bernie Loke under the leadership of Ashley Hanlon.

“Ashley Foods has earned an exceptional reputation through its commitment to quality, personalized service, and strong customer relationships. Their family-owned culture and dedication to serving operators strongly reflect the values of our cooperative. We are excited to welcome Ashley Foods to UniPro and look forward to partnering in their continued growth and success,” said Lindsay Farmer, Sr. VP Member Development.

Through its cooperative model, UniPro connects independent distributors and Supplier partners with Member success at the center. By aligning programs, building meaningful partnerships, and leveraging data, UniPro drives growth while preserving independence.
